The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 4-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 4 and 9 are indefinite because the exact meaning of “one selected from the group including jade, ceramics, and magnet or molded out of plastic containing at least one selected from the group” is unclear

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Edwards et al. Edwards et al teach a fabric containing chitosan, talc, and a combination of the elements of which “magma-stone” is composed, which fabric is also formed from e.g. polyesters. It would have been obvious to the artisan of ordinary skill to form a bedding material from the article of Edwards et al and to employ the various layers; arrangements of layers claimed; and something attaching them, since this is not critical; is well within the skill of one having ordinary skill in the art; and provides no unexpected result, thus producing a device such as claimed.
